Review Critical Incidents/Complaints

Critical Incidents:
1. March 2023 (attempted suicide)
2. March 2023 (attempted suicide) – Megan wanted to know if the counselor does follow up or how that occurs. Jason shared if the person was in the ED, then a caring contact occurs the next day as an outreach. Other than that, yes, the treatment does do follow up.
3. March 2023 (attempted suicide) – Diana wondered if there was an increase in youth suicides. Jason said there tends to be an uptick of crisis (not necessarily suicides as there does not seem to be a seasonal pattern) in the spring, possibly due to ending of the school year, but reasons are unknown. Diana asked if suicide rates are more due to more access. Traci noted that there were no suicides during this quarter to review, as these were attempts, but that it is believe there is not more access, necessarily, as people unfortunately have been committing suicide all through history as there is always some kind of mean to do so.
4. April 2023 (danger to health and safety)
5. April 2023 (danger to health and safety)
6. May 2023 (attempted suicide) – Commissioner Starrett asked about what resources there are for youth after an attempt, and Jason shared several.
7. May 2023 (danger to health and safety) – It was asked if 400 was a high blood sugar number, and it was shared that the staff did not know, but the client said it was so based on that and client’s presentation, EMS was called. Pauline shared that yes, that was a high blood sugar number, as about 100 is normal range.

Complaints:
1. 3/28/23 – no feedback
2. 4/18/23 – no feedback
