H. OLD BUSINESS:

1. B.O. 24-319 - Consideration of approval of Amendment #11 to Agreement #180033 between Yamhill County and the Oregon Health Authority for Public Health Services (BO 23-260) adding funding in the amount of $103,189.00. #HHS24013IGA [Continued from October 17, 2024.]

Lindsey Manfrin addressed questions from the October 17th, 2024 Board of Commissioners formal session regarding school policy and parental notification of students in crisis. She clarified that the proposed amendment would add funding for additional School Based

Mental Health (SBMH) services and that the funding would be granted biannually thereafter. Ms. Manfrin clarified that the proposed contract did not change any of the currently provided services. Ms. Manfrin stated that depending on how the school district wanted to utilize the proposed funding, the department was prepared to provide the services immediately upon approval. Healthcare providers were required to abide by Oregon state statute, but Ms. Manfrin stated that she couldn't confirm how the school district was regulated. There were legal requirements for mental health providers to notify parents at certain points of service to minors in Oregon. In some circumstances however, parental notification would not occur if there were an open abuse case. Ms. Manfrin explained that the County had a role in responding to a death by suicide of a minor whether the deceased were a Health and Human Services (HHS) client or not. The County also provided immediate services along with law enforcement, as well as follow up, to any family effected by an attempt of suicide, death by suicide or overdose such as grief counseling. The HHS Child Fatality Review Board (CFRB) conducted a thorough research process after these incidents to determine how their services could be adjusted to be more effective, and they had begun doing a psychological autopsy after deaths by suicide specifically. The CFRB was a state statute regulated by the District Attorney's office.

Elise Yarnell Hollamon of Providence School Based Health Services, and Tony Buckner, school psychologist for Newberg-Dundee School District referred to six cases of deaths by suicide in 2016 after which the mental health service providers in the school district and HHS collaborated to create a plan to better respond to minors expressing suicidal ideation. According to Mr. Buckner, parental notification was one of the main goals of the school district. When notified, the employee would first respond by seeking additional involvement from parents and emergency services.

Amy Stephens explained that professional development was provided to the mental health employees within the school district.

Doctor Jeri Turgesen stated that the school district was developing risk assessment protocols to ensure support and follow ups were provided to every child. She stated that all employees encountering children were educated about how to treat any minor expressing suicidal ideation and that they were attempting to normalize communication regarding mental health. Community forums and open hearings had been conducted for any family in the Newberg area to attend and have access to services and resources. Parents could require their children to seek care from SBMH services, and if a child were to seek care without a parental opt-in form, the employee receiving them was to ask whether the parents could be notified. She confirmed that neither gender transitional services nor prenatal services were provided within the school district. She reported that Newberg school-based crisis services had one hundred percent parental involvement for children receiving care for suicide ideology as of October 2024. House Bill (HB) 3139 required medical providers to disclose information to parents of minors expressing suicidal ideation, but the bill did not include school personnel. The law was also based on individual practitioners' judgement. Lindsey Manfrin clarified that there were other statutes and bills that applied to school personnel regarding the matter. She stated that when parental engagement is not possible, Child Protective Services would be contacted instead.

Commissioner Starrett moved approval of item H1. The motion passed, Commissioners Berschauer, Johnston, and Starrett voting aye.

I. OTHER BUSINESS (Add-ons and non-consent items):

1. Consideration of approval of Amendment #2 to an agreement between Yamhill County and MedTrust, LLC. dba MedHealth (B.O. 23-315) for correctional healthcare services adding funding in the amount of $6,718.04 and extending terms through December 31, 2024. [Add-on].

Sheriff Sam Elliott stated that the extension was to allow more time to scrutinize the contract. Increases to the insurance rates were not something that could be negotiated. The Sheriff stated that the proposed cost increase would fit into the departments current budget.

Commissioner Starrett moved approval of item I1. The motion passed, Commissioners Berschauer, Johnston, and Starrett voting aye.
